

Enjoying the views

The garden pictured, originally sloped steeply towards the house and the tall wall surrounding it preventing enjoyment of the attractive views beyond.

Artscape designed a decorative raised deck, created access from the first floor of the house by replacing a window with doors and a garden approach courtesy of a flight of steps. A balustrade ensures suitable safety and the resulting views are clear for all to see.

Carefully designed dry stone retaining walls allowed the creation of a level lawn area for children to play on. Adjacent stone terraces were also added. A restriction point was achieved with plantings - this gave character to the sloping lawn, provided mystery and made the garden feel much larger than it is.
